AWAY WITH CARE.

Away, away with sighs and tear;
Away with care and sorrows,
The storm that wrecks our hopes to day
May bury grief to morrow!

It is not meet that man should mourn,
Amid this world of toiling,
For he who looks in Nature's face
Will always find her smiling.

Earth yields to us her golden gems,
There's naught around us tearful,
And rose and violet strew our path,
To make us blest and cheerful.

'Tis true, Old Winter will return,
To show his different phases,
But spring we know, will come at last,
To strew the fields with daisies.

And thus, when life is ended here,
A hope to us is given,
A promise of a brighter land
A happy home in Heaven!

COURTING IN RIGHT STYLE.

'Get out, you nasty puppy—let me alone, or I'll tell your ma!' exclaimed Sally to her lover, Jake, who sat about ten feet from her pulling dirt out of the jam.

'I aint techin' you Sal,' responded Jake.

'Well perhaps you don't mean to, nuther: do yer?'

'No I don't'

'Cause why, you're so tarnal scary, you long-legged, lantern-jawed, slab-sided pigeonstoed, gander-kneed owl, you hain't got a tarnal bit o' sense, get along home with you:'

'Now Sal, I love you and I can't help it, and ef you don't let me stay and court you, my daddy will sue yourn for that cow he sold him t'other day. By jingo, he said he'd do it.'

'Well look here Jake, if you want to court me you'd better do it as a white man does that thing—not set off there as if you thort I was pison.'

'How on airth is that Sal?'

'Why sidel right up here and hug and kiss me as if you really had some of the bone and sinew of a man about you. Do you s'pose a woman's only made to look at you fool you. No, they're made for 'practical results,' as Kossuth says—to hug and kiss and sich like.'

'Well,' said Jake, drawing a long breath, 'if I must I must, for I do love you Sal,' and so Jake commenced sidling up to her like a male porker going to battle. Laying his arm gently upon Sal's shoulder, we thought we heard Sal say—

'Now you begin to please me old hoss, that's acting like a white man orter.'

'Oh Jerusalem and pan cakes!' exclaimed Jake, 'if this aint better than any apple sass that ever marm made a darn sight! Oh, crackee!—buckwheat cakes, slap jacks and 'lasses aint no whar long side of you Sal—oh, how I love you!'

Here their lips came together, and the report that followed, was like the pulling of a horse's hoof out of the mire;

FRANCE.

The Frenchman arrested on a charge of offering to assassinate the Emperor Napoleon, has been tried and acquainted.

A number of Ribbon men have been arrested in France.

The French news is entirely concentrated on reports of the grand fete of the 15th. A review of thousands of men, tournaments, a passage at arms between French and English knights on the field of the Cloth of Gold, balloon ascents, processions, boat races, &c., took place. High mass was celebrated, and the proceedings wound up with a brilliant display of fireworks, and an unlimited supply of bread and vin ordinaire to the poor at a total expenditure of three fourth of a million of francs. The weather was very favorable for this joint festival of Napoleon and the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Mr. Sandford appeared at the Emperor's soiree in citizen's dress.

The duties on bitumen are abolished. Propos ls to grant 8,000,000 francs to pay the legacies of Napoleon I. will probably be carried.

The Government inclines to the purchase of the Patrie newspaper.

Trade in Paris was active, owing to the visitors to the fete, and to orders from Australia.

Reliable accounts say that it will be necessary to import only one month's consumption, say ten million hectr. of wheat.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

A despatch from Jassy, dated the 3d inst. says that the Divan was convoked, and the Hospoaars solicited to remain. The Czar gave them permission to go to Constantinople or to remain unmolested in the provinces.

AUSTRALIA.

Redschid Pacha has notified Austria that any occupation of Servia by the Austrian troops would be regarded as a declaration of war. In the meantime the Porte undertakes to preserve order in the Province.

The Official Journal, Austria, of the 17th, contains a decree discontinuing the state of siege of Vienna and Prague.

A NUT TO CRACK,—Mr Dump, has in order to encourage ingenuity, resolved on offering a handsome reward to any one a very handsome reward to any one who will pick his pockets so effectually as to get anything out of them. The learned gentleman states, fairly enough, that he has tried the experiment frequently on his own pocket, and has never yet succeeded; but that if any one else should prove more fortunate, he will be most happy to share the produce with the lucky individual. The professional pick pockets have, it is understood, long ago abandoned the task, so that amateurs have now a fair opportunity.

☞'Pappy can't I go to the zoological rooms, to see the camonile fight the rhinosercow?'

'Sartain my son—but don't get your trowsers torn: Strange my dear, what a taste that boy has got for nat'ral history, isnt it?' No longer ago than yesterday, he had eight pairs of tom cats hung by their tails over the clothes line!'

—o—

☞Here is a clergyman's opinion of newspapers. Rev. Dr. Daniel Baker, of Texas, says he has traveled through a great many States, mixed with the people, conversed at the country fireside, and preached in the open forest as well as in the thronged city. Where he found newspapers he found intelligence, people whom he could talk or listen to with pleasure, and among whom his good work prospered. As a general thing, where a newspaper was not taken, he could tell it in the slovenliness of the household, the ignorance of the children, and the difference in civilization between those who do not, that the traveler in the country will be pleased and entertained by the one while he will despise the other without knowing the cause to which the difference is attributable;

—o—

Not Particular.—An aged spinster growing weary, among other 'ills flesh is heir to,' of a 'life of single blessedness,' betook herself to the silent recess of the grove, and there prayed most fervently that Providence would provide for her what forty years of smiling and simpering had failed to entrap, viz: a husband! She had no sooner got through her devotion, than an owl (of the largest species) hooted from the top of a tree over the head of the hapless maiden, 'who—ho,—whoo!' To which she replied with her eyes fervently fixed on the earth, and supposing that He whom she implored, had come to her rescue, 'Anybody good Lord.'

☞The Annual Fair of the State Agricultural Society, will commence at Pittsburg on Tuesday September 27th, and continue for four days. The premiums silver medals and silver plate offered, exceed in value $5.000.

THE WIDOW AND HER LANDLORD.

'Mother, did not Mr. Allen say he would call to day, for his rent?'

'Yes my child, and I have but ten dollars to give him.'

'O! he will take it—I know he will, he is so kind!'

'True, but he is only the agent—hark! some one's at the door.'

The daughter having opened it, there entered a plain looking man—indeed, as the eye rested upon him, it became as it were fixed! there was something peculiar in his manner, his look and dress, his hat was not like that of other men, nor was his dress—a degree of negligence was remarked, and if the observer seemed to speak of it by a look, a curl of the lip, and a sort of inward laugh, spoke his contempt: Altogether the individual, as he stood in that little room, was calculated to create two very opposite feelings respect, and dread. He spoke sharp, quick, but low,

'Madam I have called in the place of Mr Allen, for the rent—have you got it?'

The poor woman looked astonished—she knew but the agent—here was a total stranger, she hesitated, then remarked, that she 'could not pay the money to any one save the agent, or the landlord.'

'I am the landlord madam, my receipt, I presume will be good.'

'O, sir! I ask your pardon, be seated.'

'No excuses madam, you were perfectly right. I am a stranger to you.'

'But sir, I have not got all the money, I have ten dollars.'

'Well if it is all you have got, I cannot expect more.'

He cast his eyes around the neat comfortable room, while the mother went for the money.

'So miss, you never saw the landlord, eh.'

'No sir, only Mr. Allen.'

'Do you go to school?'

'Yes sir, that is sometimes, I have to stay at home to assist mother to work, I have two little brothers, they go to school and there is no one to work but mother and myself.'

'Umph! how old are you?'

'Thirteen sir.'

At that moment the mother entered with the ten dollars, and handed it to the landlord. 'Give me a piece of paper, and pen, I will give you a receipt.'

'I do not want one sir, you are the landlord—I owe you more than that.'

'Umph! Yet madam you should always take receipts for monies paid, as we know not what may happen. I wish to give you one.'

The pen, ink and paper were laid before him. 'There madam, is a receipt for ten dollars'—he wrote on—'and here is another for the balance of the quarter.' The poor woman stared, 'and here madam, is one for two quarters rent in advance take it, no thanks, farewell.'

The landlord was gone. The widow and her daughter stood as if they were transfixed, so sudden, so unexpected, the man they almost feared, so kind, so generous. She took up the receipts, yes there they were, signed in a good full and round hand. The name gentle reader, is familiar to you. it is a name rendered more dear to all now that its owner has passed away from amongst us. Yet will it remain long, long through coming time will that name dwell in our memories and be cherished as it is by that poor widow, and when she looks at it and remembers the hour, and how from that bright period hope sprung up in her heart, and the smile of heaven came with its sunlight into her lowly dwelling, will she not bless the name of John Price Wetherill.

'THE NEW YORK JOURNAL,'

One Dollar per annum, in advance (to mail subscribers,) or Three Cents singly.

Thus presenting at a cheaper rate, a greater variety of instructive, entertaining, and amusing reading than is given by any other publication. A large amount of capital is employed in the enterprise, and the plan, in its conception and execution, opens a new era in American Periodical Literature. It is the determination and aim of the Proprietors to establish the cheapest, handsomest, and most attractive Journal in the Union.'

THE POPULAR EDUCATOR.

Each number of the Educator will contain articles in several of the departments. The lessons in Geography will be accompanied with maps engraved on copper; and the Lessons in every other department which can admit of it will be illustrated by diagrams engravings and drawings, nothing which artistic skill can do, to embellish the several subjects, will be neglected.

The Popular Educator has received an encouraging welcome from the people throughout the length and breadth of the United States. They have already given it a most cordial reception into the great family of periodicals. The publisher feels that he has met one of the public wants. So great has been the demand for the first number, that he has been obliged to go to press with a third edition, which is now ready.

COL. BURT.

Col. B. is a brother of Hon. Amestead Burt of South Carolina, who has been in Congress many years, and bears a strong resemblence to him in person, appearance and manners. The Col. is in the vigor of life, over six feet in height, with an erect manly figure of the average size: His face is partially round, and becoming in full, with a rich dark shade, and a slight carnation glow. His open bland forehead shaded with the blackest raven hair, bespeaks that dignified tranquility inseparable from strong mental powers: On his deep set brow, composed and mild as the silver moon, you may trace the lines of benevolence from it in every lineament of his face. His fine fawn eye brilliant as gems, beams with intelligence and that true benevolence for which his honored State is distinguished. His countenance, like most of those Southern patriots, is magnanimous, and inspires esteem and respect; while his manners have all the blandishments of the gentleman and scholar. Mr. B. is 3d Auditor of the U. S. Treasury.

We shall never forget the noble expression of this gentleman's brother, Hon Armestead Burt, in Congress—while the California question was under debate, we were in the House before it went into session one morning, talking earnestly with a member on the subject, and was doubtless overheard, and the next moment Gen. Burt was passing in front of our seats, and looked directly at us, raised his hand and pointed his finger, said, 'the bill shall pass. I am going there now" to the committee room, But the dignity of his step and the eloquence of his eye, and especially the result is an evidence that truth was in his heart.

Gen. Casey.

Gen. C. is another new appointment; he is Treasurer. He is a middle aged man, rather above the standard height, though as he was seated we cannot pretend to accuracy. He is of good size, and seems to be the picture of health, and at once unites every gift of nature and every embellishment of society; his face is round of becoming fulness, somewhat dark, but doubtless was once fair and spotless, but the wear and tare of time must be allowed even in law. His forehead is square, his hair once black, is growing grey. His eye, describe it who can, it is not in our power. There is apparently no virtue or quality that ennobles man which does not beam in his noble eye, or manifest in his fine open countenance—he has more expression of countenance than any one we ever saw. Gen. Casey is, we believe, a native of Kentucky. The President has done himself honor in the appointment of these gentlemen.

We called on the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, but he was too much engaged at the time.

Dear Nephew—I owe you an apology, your pretty verses came to hand, and were pronounced good, but I lost them while paying a visit. Come and see me this Fall, I have something for you to do. I have been quite ill, but have recovered. You can finish your education here.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO MAJ. GEN. G. J. PILLOW AND THE Hon. Fred. P. Stanton, at Browns' Hotel,

☞ The Fall of the year has come,

THE NEW YORK CONVENTIONS.

" All the world grows sad and weary,
Ebery where I roam,'

So says the darkey's song, just as if he had in his mind's eye the grand conglomeration of conventional 'muss' enjoyed in Gotham city this week. There we read about 'World's Temperance Convention,' 'The Woman's Rights' Convention,' and the 'Democratic City Convention,' all of whom have been treating themselves to 'a jolly row.' Among the Democrats, the antagonistic forces ranged in the same camp, are the 'Old Hunker-Dickinsons National Hard Shell Party,' and the 'Free Soil John Van Buren Soft Shells.' The little difficulty in this crowd is about the selection of delegates to the State Convention to be held in Syracuse next Tuesday. The latest accounts indicate a decisive victory for the Hard Shells, 'after a glorious struggle'

Next comes the 'Woman's Rights' Convention,' elegantly announced in the New York Herald as 'the Bloomer Comedy.' The proceedings show how 'an address was voted to the Strong Minded Women of Europe,' how Miss Lucy Stone defended the Hon. Mrs. Norton, how a black bloomer, (Mrs. Sojourner Truth) made a still blacker speech, how Doctor Harriet K. Hunt made her platform, —for how could a convention get along without a platform?—how a disturbance was made how Wendell Phillips was hissed down, how the 'Grand Banquet' was abandoned, and how the managers held on to the ticket money, —some how or other 'cash' always adheres to the holders, but perhaps the managers had the 'rights' of it—and a rumpus kicked up generally among the harmonious feminines. We have thus endeavored to crowd into nut shell space a 'coup d'eil' of the scene, but the figuring in the back ground is little less unique and makes a remarkable 'swath.' The Reverend Miss Antionette Brown did not occupy much of the time of this Convention having got her hands in the 'world's temperance convention;' to which she was a regularly elected delegate.

The details of the 'rights' demanded, and the 'terms' thereof, we must reserve for another occasion, but would merely remark that however much of justice these ladies seek, or men may be disposed to admit, yet nothing will be accomplished by the fair heroines until a little more 'order reigns in Warsaw,' or at their meetings.

And now we come to the 'World's Temperance Convention,' in which our city is duly represented by regularly chosen delegates. The history of this assemblage has been 'confusion worse confounded,' from the first hour of the session. And it was all about the Reverend Antionette Brown, and her right to sit on the platform and make speeches. Wendell Phillips, of Boston, Neal Dow, (president of the convention) Dr. Snodgrass, of Baltimore, and a majority of the convention desired Miss Antionette to make a speech, but a considerable minority of the delegates objected, hence 'the spree.' Antionette stood the shower of hisses, (not kisses) sneers, groans, and yells, with a firmness 'worthy of a better cause.' The police had to clear the room of all outsiders and it was fortunate for the Rev. Miss if she came off without a single scratch or worse. The details here also, are 'too numerous to mention,' though one fact remains as 'fixed' as the rock of Gibraltar, and that is that the Temperance movement, for a considerable to come, will retrograde, if indeed it do not finally 'fizzle out' so far as sledge-hammer oratory and Maine Law making are concerned.'

[Semi-Weekly News,

These fanatics and semi-Idiots may always be known by this word 'World,' they would not stoop to have a village a town, or even an American Convention. The chiefs or principals distinguish this party by the word 'Evangelical,' no one else knows the secrets of which the word refers to but the head men. See the degradation our females have sunk into! Alas! for Mr. Everett, these are his Pilgrims, come to New York to expose themselves, and instruct 'the world,' 'Emperors, and kings, and parliaments—the oldest and the strongest governments in Europe—must engage in this work.'

Hon E. Everett will then be President and that snake in the grass, Mr Kendall of the Picayune, Vice President. Look at them and their names, and the deplorable absence of sense, and shameless want of feminine modesty—not is this all. The whole country is injured by them in another sense—many of our best papers are pilfered and destroyed by these half crazed women, who perhaps dislike the contents—our paper was almost wholly destroyed last session, and the one before last, and we sent for the money, the members said they had not received the paper—our loss was near a thousand dollars! and we came within an ace of starvation. The mischief happened chiefly at Gilberts and Calverts. But the slander was still more cruel—'O she is the richest woman almost in the world.'

Not Particular.—An aged spinster growing weary, among other 'ills flesh is heir to,' of a 'life of single blessedness,' betook herself to the silent recess of the grove, and there prayed most fervently that Providence would provide for her what forty years of smiling and simpering had failed to entrap, viz: a husband! She had no sooner got through her devotion, than an owl [of the largest species] hooted from the top of a tree over the head of the hapless maiden, 'who—ho.—whoo!' PROSPECTUS
OF THE WEEKLY REPUBLIC.

The Subscribers having purchased, the interest of Messrs. Gideon & Co. in this paper, have determined to establish, at the seat of the Federal Government, a weekly paper, under the editorial control of W. M. BURWELL, of Virginia, and according to the following synopsis of doctrine;

The maintenance of the rights of the States as indespensable to the permanence of the Union.

The restriction of the Federal Government within the limits of the Constitution, and the honest administration of its departments.

The maintenance of the Compromise law as a solemn and final settlement of the questions which it involves.

The maintenance of a foreign policy which will protect national honor and individual rights.

The acquisition by honest purchase of such territory as the growing wants of the nation may require, without any Federal restriction upon the rights of property therein, and with the unqualified right in the citizens thereof to establish State governments, and demand admission as equal sovereign members of the Confederacy.

Since no friendship, personal or political, can be permanent unless based upon independence and equality, the REPUBLIC will advocate the more uniform diffusion of the constitutional elements of power throughout the Union. The balance of sections will thus be preserved, not by protest or constitutional construction, but by something like equality of population, commerce, industrial skill, and available capital. This will imply the advocacy of Southern development, the encouragment of immigration, and the transfer of capital and enterprise into the Southern States, the connexion of Southern seaports with the productive interior of the West and Northwest, their participation in the trade just opening with the rich regions of Southern America, and the dawning commerce of the African and Asiatic Pacific.

The promotion of intercourse and the restoration of harmony between the two great sections will constitute the strongest bond of Federal union, the surest guarantee against foreign intervention, and will so interweave our social and pecuniary relations as to render rivalry, oppression, or separation impossible.

In the execution of the purpose indicated a paper must be placed beyond the reach of power or party, it should be based upon the broad substratum of popular support. The proprietors of the REPUBLIC ask neither alms nor stipend. They offer a cheap medium of information. The foreign and domestic news, an impartial review of measures pending before the Government, a weekly condensation of the public gossip, none the worse perhaps of a few days' filtration, such literary selections as may be interesting or improving. To effect their objects, they ask such patronage as may be consistent with the interest and approval of the public, and with this they will endeavor to verify the professions of their Prospectus.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1853

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY

Over Thirty-one years have elapsed since the Saturday Evening Post began its weekly round of blended instruction and amusement: and never, in all that period, was its success so marked as at the present moment. Possessing undeniably the largest circulation, by many thousands, of any paper of its class in the Union, its subscribers have the best of reasons for believing that it stands upon a permanent basis, and that they will receive the full value of every dollar intrusted to its publishers. In announcing some of our preparations for the coming year, we may begin by stating our continued connection with Mrs. Southworth, a writer who, in vigor and fertility of genius, is not surpassed by any, male or female, in the Union. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, a lady whom it would be almost superfluous to praise, in view of the general popularity of such tales as 'The Mob Cap,' 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc. also is enrolled among our contributors

We shall shortly begin the publication of a story entitled

CLARA MORELAND,

By Emerson Bennett, author of 'Viola,' 'Prairie Flower,' 'Bandits of the Osage,' etc. And at the opening of the ensuing year we design commencing the publication of the following Novelet,

MISS THUSA'S SPINNING-WHEEL,

By Mrs. Lee Hentz, of Florida, author of 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc.

This novelet we design following by a story entitled,

A STRAY PATCH FROM AUNT HANNAH'S QUILT.

By Mrs. Frances D. Gage, of Ohio, widely known as the author of some admirably written and very effective household poems, sketches, etc. After this we expect to be able to commence

THE LOST HEIRESS:

A STORY OF HOWLET HALL.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, author of 'The Curse of Clifton,' 'Virginia and Magdalene,' 'Shannondale,' 'The Deserted Wife,' etc.

In addition to these and other Original tales, involving a large expenditure of money we shall lay before our readers as heretofore choice tales, sketches, essays, narratives, etc. from the English magazines, such as have given the Post a name for the excellence of its selections;

Engravings—In the way of engravings we present at least two weekly, one of an instructive and the other of a humorous character,

☞ Of course we shall maintain for the Post the character it has acquired of being a strictly moral paper, not ridiculously squeamish and straight laced, but really and truly moral; such as may be taken into the family circle without fear. Advertisements of an improper character shall be, as heretofore, rigidously excluded.

CHEAP POSTAGE.

The postage on the Post to any part of the United States, when paid quarterly in advance, is now only 26 cents a year. And we trust that the public generally will show their appreciation of this commendable reduction of postage, by largely increasing the number of papers taken at the various offices—that thus there may be no falling off in the revenue of the Post office department. This will insure a continuance of the present reduced rates.

TERMS.

The terms of the Post are Two Dollars if paid in advance; 3,00, if not paid in advance. For five dollars in advance, one copy will be sent three years. We continue the following low terms for Clubs—to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one Post Office:

DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING ELIXIR OR CORDIAL;

Cure of Nervous Diseases.

No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the diseased, debilitated, and shattered nervous system. Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once refreshed, revivified, and built up. The mental and physical symptoms of nervous disease vanish together under its influence. The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man. He stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom, or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright, buoyant, active; and he goes forth refreshed, regenerated, and conscious of new vigor, to his accustomed occupations. Nor is the effect temporary. On the contrary, the relief is permanent, for the cordial properties of the medicine reach the constitution itself, and restore it to its normal condition. Well may the preparation be called the MEDICINAL WONDER of the nineteenth century. It is, as the first scientific men in the old world have admitted, that miracle of medicine heretofore supposed to have no existence.

Its force is never expended, as is the case with opium, alcoholic preparations, and all other excitants. The effect of these is brief, and it may well be said of him who takes them 'the last state of that man is worse than the first.' But the Elixir is an exhilarant without a single drawback, safe in its operation perpetual in its happy influence upon the nerves, the mind, and the entire system. In cases of neuralgia, headache, loss of memory, hypochondriasis, dyspepsia, general prostration, irritability, nervousness, inability to sleep, liver complaint, and all diseases incident to females, hysteria, monomania, vague terrors, palpitation of the heart, impotency, barrenness, constipation, etc., from whatever cause arising, it is if there is any reliance to be placed on human testimony, absolutely infallible.

It is the only infallible remedy yet discovered for Nervous, Head, and Mind Complaints; it is the mental physic long sought for, and never before found, the only natural agent that can administer to a mind diseased. It will increase and restore the appetite, strengthen the emaciated, renew the health of those who have destroyed it, induce continual cheerfulness and equanimity of spirits, and prolong life.

Persons of pale complexion or consumptive habits are restored by the use of a bottle or two to bloom and vigor, changing the skin from a pale yellow, sickly color to a beautiful florid complexion.

The common expression of those who have used this extract is—I have heard your Cordial highly spoken of but was one of the incredulous in regard to its merit, having tried various medicines sold for the same purpose without deriving any benefit. I had almost given up all hopes of deriving any relief, and when I purchased some of your Cordial I had no faith whatever of its benefitting me, but it has.
